

- ◆ According to the Montana Office of Public Instruction's 2015 Annual Report, 43% of K-12 students are currently receiving free or reduced-price school meals each day.
- ◆ Nearly two-thirds (65%) of K-8 teachers say there are children in their classrooms who regularly come to school hungry because they don't get enough to eat at home.
- ◆ More than 48,000 children (21.8%) in Montana are considered food insecure, according to Feeding America.

Grants up to $2,000 Available!

The program is flexible. Many schools start offering afterschool meals at 3:00pm so that students can eat before their activities such as band, clubs, sports, and tutoring. The meal is often comprised as a "super-snack." This way, kids can have more food to sustain them until they eat dinner (if they get dinner at home), schools can be reimbursed at a higher rate for a meal instead of just a snack, and food services can easily prepare the food. Schools can develop their own menus which allow them to offer healthy food that will teach kids good eating habits, making them less likely to snack on junk food.
